Hadoop is a distributed framework used for storing and processing large datasets across multiple computers.